1.2.196

a Lesson in the University of The New Covenant

Theodore Cottingham, December 6, 2004, Tape 68_4, St. John's Library

www.unc.bz

1. I have a poverty mentality none, none, not at all; it does not exist in Me; but only abundance. That which restricts and limits in places outside of boundaries, I know nothing of; all is given to Me and I give all to you. I give all to you, I give all to My Mine. I have a poverty mentality none at all and you must not either; you cannot. You must obliterate the remaining belief and poverty-residualness that remains; for I come and I call and I conquer and I conquer in faith and I conquer in obedience; the trust which undergirds all, the integrity of My word. I love you.
2. See what I have said and say day after day as you come and sit in My school, sit at My knee; where I take you, how I take you, what I take you to, what I place in your hands, what I write on your heart that you then give voice to, that you write notes sometimes and now speak, speak; the volumes of My mouth coming forth--I love you--etching, indelibly imprinting, placing Me in Mine, you, those around you, those who will eat and drink of My words, My words through you, and eat and drink themselves and replete be of a satiety I know nothing of. Few have come into satiety of only Me, a satisfiedness that transcends the transnormal, superimposed not, supergiven. I love you. I give you Me transnormal not, transparent yes, transparently, transparent in all that I am, all that I have been, all that I are, that we are, that you are, that we are; knowing that we includes you. I love you.
3. I give you Me and expand you I do, expand your base of force and your force of base, baseness not; your base from which you launched. I love you. Expand you I do, expanding you I am, catapulting you I have for you took the pole, you accepted, you received, and you waited. And as I have said, now GO! You have run and, yea, I cheer you on this day. I cheer you on, your coach, your mentor, your discipler, your friend, your King, Master, creator, family maker. I love you.
4. I give you Me as you accelerate and you hurdle over, you hurdle clear, hurdle after hurdle with Me, Me watching, Me experiencing, Me being with you and in you, and doing and being, altogether one. And the joy that satisfies not the carnal mind and the value system of five senses, but so far rises above the mediocrity of the thought place of propriety that now exists so freely in Me that I give and we experience together. I love you.
5. Reflections of only Me, reflectors of only Me; carrying many you do, you are, in your loins. See Me. I love you. I give you Me. Generations so important; imperative, paramount. See not the Mighty Many in your loins, See Me, Me, Me alone, your lover, your who loves to kiss you. Thank you for letting Me kiss you, thank you for loving our times alone, protecting it; and yea, yielding to Me, giving Me My way to exalt and elevate the purity, the power from the passion of goodness that comes only from Me. Yea, only My Father is good (1), your Father, Me, one. I love you.

6. I give you much and more comes, only begun, only begun, beginning of the beginning; cresting not even yet but arising, the waves swelling, the acceleration continues: into the air, My scepter accepted. Pole vaulting over many, many hurdles, defusing and eliminating that which seems impervious and impenetrable, unconquerable, unchangeable. Yea, over with Me we go, today, tomorrow and forevermore: astro jets and propulsion vehicles of only Me.

7. See and enjoy this day so much and smile more, please. Enjoy all I am doing. Yea, even with your pocket empty, so full you know you are and growing, growing. Thank you. I come, I am, you are I Am, and you know you know Me. Thank you for knowing Me every single day. I love you.

Good morning

Footnote:

(1) Luke 18:19 "Why do you call me good?" Jesus answered. "No one is good--except God alone.